Rosalita has been an integral part of the Olmec team since 2009, collaborating closely with Gary Smith, who recognised and recruited her for her exceptional research capabilities. Possessing extensive expertise in executive sourcing across diverse sectors such as IT/Telco, FMCG, Banking & Finance, and Education, she has consistently demonstrated her proficiency in identifying top level talent. Over the years, Rosalita has played a key role in successfully placing outstanding executives through international searches.

Her approach involves leveraging a wide array of information sources, including the internet, market insights, public records, and databases. This comprehensive strategy ensures that she delivers unparalleled research support, meeting the unique requirements of each assignment.
